RESEARCH BACKGROUND

- 2012-2013 POSTDOCTORAL SCHOLAR IN COGNITIVE NEUROSCIENCE
 California Institute of Technology
 Supervisor: Ralph Adolphs, Ph.D.
 Research examined the neural basis of interoceptive fear using functional neuroimaging and pharmacological interventions in rare human patients with focal bilateral amygdala lesions.
- 2005-2012 GRADUATE STUDENT RESEARCH ASSISTANT, Neurology
 University of Iowa
 Supervisor: Daniel Tranel, Ph.D.
 Research explored brain-behavior relationships in neurological patients with circumscribed brain damage. Projects were primarily aimed at understanding how the subjective experience of emotion was altered by lesions within the limbic and paralimbic neural circuitry. Particular topics of investigation included the study of emotion in patients with amnesia, affective chronometry and the time course of emotion recovery, examination of fear and panic in patients with amygdala damage, and the combination of the lesion method with functional neuroimaging.

2000-2005 UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT RESEARCH ASSISTANT, Psychiatry
University of California, San Diego
Supervisors: Martin Paulus, M.D., and Murray Stein, M.D.
Research assessed the neural substrates underlying components of cognition, affect, and personality in relation to psychiatric illness using functional magnetic resonance imaging. PharmacofMRI studies were also conducted with the aim of understanding how various drug manipulations dose-dependently modulate neural activity. Populations studied included patients with Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, Social Phobia, Schizophrenia, and Methamphetamine-Dependence.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE

2010-2011 OEF/OIF PTSD CLINIC, Psychiatry
San Diego VA Hospital
Supervisors: Sonya Norman, Ph.D., and Steven Thorp, Ph.D.
The Operation Enduring Freedom/Operation Iraqi Freedom (OEF/OIF) clinic provided supervised training in the assessment and treatment of posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD) in recently deployed veterans. Training focused on using time-limited empirically supported PTSD interventions, including Prolonged Exposure Therapy and Cognitive Processing Therapy. I also conducted a weekly group therapy session for treatment of posttraumatic anger and aggression issues using mindfulness-based cognitive therapy.

2010-2011 TBI COGNITIVE REHABILITATION PROGRAM, Psychiatry
San Diego VA Hospital
Supervisor: Amy Jak, Ph.D.
Supervised training in providing cognitive rehabilitation to veterans with mild to moderate traumatic brain injuries stemming from the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. Treatment was provided using the CogSMART (Cognitive Symptom Management and Rehabilitation Therapy) treatment manual and focused on compensatory strategies, memory, planning, organization, problem solving, skills for academic success, and family education.

2010-2011 NEUROPSYCHOLOGICAL ASSESSMENT UNIT, Psychiatry
San Diego VA Hospital
Supervisors: Dean Delis, Ph.D., Mark Bondi, Ph.D.,
J. Vincent Filoteo, Ph.D., and Gregory Brown, Ph.D.
Supervised training in neuropsychological assessment by an experienced team of board-certified clinical neuropsychologists. Patients spanned a range of neurological and psychiatric conditions including traumatic brain injury, stroke, movement disorders, PTSD, depression, Alzheimer's disease and other types of dementia.

2008-2010 BENTON NEUROPSYCHOLOGY CLINIC, Neurology
University of Iowa Hospitals & Clinics

Supervisors: Daniel Tranel, Ph.D., Robert Jones, Ph.D., and Joseph Barrash, Ph.D.

Supervised training in neuropsychological assessment by an experienced team of board-certified clinical neuropsychologists. Patients spanned a range of neurological conditions including stroke, epilepsy, brain cancer, movement disorders, Alzheimer's disease and other types of dementia.

2006-2010

SEASHORE PSYCHOLOGY CLINIC, Psychology
University of Iowa

Supervisors: James Marchman, Ph.D., Lee Anna Clark, Ph.D., and Gregory Gullickson, Ph.D.

Outpatient mental health clinic that provided supervised training in psychotherapy and psychodiagnostic testing. Detailed psychological evaluations were undertaken for patients with intellectual disabilities, learning disorders, and ADHD. Additionally, a number of adult patients were seen on a long-term basis for weekly psychotherapy sessions. Therapy patients presented with a variety of different issues including depression, anxiety, bipolar disorder, schizophrenia, alcohol dependence, and borderline personality disorder. Treatment strategies focused on acceptance and mindfulness-based techniques rooted in third generation behavior therapies such as Acceptance and Commitment Therapy and Behavioral Activation.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Fall 2014 &
Fall 2016

LECTURER, Biology
University of Tulsa

Class instructor: Jason Avery, Ph.D.

Taught a lecture about fear and the amygdala in an undergraduate upper-division biology course entitled Principles of Neuroscience.

Fall 2006 &
Spring 2007

TEACHING ASSISTANT, Introductory Psychology
University of Iowa

Supervisors: Michael O'Hara, Ph.D., and Shaun Vecera, Ph.D.

Undergraduate lower-division psychology course entitled Elementary Psychology. Duties included teaching four sections a week, and creation/grading of paper assignments, quizzes and exams.

Fall 2005

TEACHING ASSISTANT, Biological Psychology
University of Iowa

Supervisor: Joshua Rodefer, Ph.D.

Undergraduate lower-division psychology course entitled Introduction to Brain and Behavior. Duties included teaching four sections a week, and creation/grading of paper assignments, quizzes and exams.

Spring 2003 &
Spring 2004

TEACHING ASSISTANT, Cognitive Neuroscience
University of California, San Diego

Supervisor: Andrea Chiba, Ph.D.

Undergraduate upper-division cognitive science course reviewing brain systems implicated in attention, stress, emotion and memory. Duties included teaching a weekly section and a monthly review session, and creation/grading of quizzes and exams.

AD HOC REVIEWER

Biological Psychiatry, Consciousness and Cognition, Cerebral Cortex, Cortex, European Journal of Neuroscience, Journal of Clinical and Experimental Neuropsychology, Journal of Cognitive Neuroscience, Learning and Memory, Neuropsychologia, Neuropsychology, Neuroscience & Biobehavioral Reviews, Neuroscience Letters, PLoS ONE, Psychological Medicine, Psychological Science, Social Cognitive and Affective Neuroscience, Social Neuroscience

MENTORSHIP

2000-2003: President and founding member of Students for the Future of America, a UCSD student-run organization dedicated to mentoring underprivileged children and teenagers in San Diego. The organization's mission was to promote the pursuit of higher education with the long-term goal of increasing diversity within the university student population.
